My name is Hanna. I'm a gorgeous kitty who just needs a little love and understanding. Here's the deal: I was left with two other kitties at the Berkeley public shelter. I was then adopted out twice. The first time it was into a house with a kitty who did not like me (why, I don't know, as I consider myself a likeable gal). The second time, the person didn't wait for me to adjust and brought me back after only a couple days because I was crying in my safe room. I am a sweetheart and wonderful lap cat who loves affection; I just need a little patience and time to adjust. I'm only five years old and have a lot of love to give the right person. My fur is so soft it feels like rabbit fur (grooming is very important to me). I love to swish around my plume of a tail and even play with it occasionally. I really am a great girl, but because I've been returned twice (even though it wasn't my fault) it doesn't look good for me here at the shelter. I need at least a temporary home as soon as possible. Can you help?
