My name is Milo. I'm about a year old, but here's a photo of what I looked like as a kitten - cute as a bug in a rug, right? Well, I'm still gorgeous - a beauty to observe, I've been told. I have loving eyes and am very friendly and affectionate. Lately the chaos in my house has made me a little skittish, but when I have time with people, I'm very affectionate, love to be scratched and petted, and am OK with being picked up. I can be rather independent and often act like a big brother to the younger girls in my family (yes, that involves teasing). Again, I'm a real beauty and am not handling my current crazy environment very well, but in a calm environment I will thrive and come around to being the best buddy a human could have.
